

Use Your Information as a Project Accelerator

Transform Disorder Into Delivery

Chaos is costly. Especially on capital projects, where success depends on safe, precise, on-time execution and budget certainty. The smartest way to cure information chaos? Make sure your vast collection of documents, drawings, and other information is organized, accessible, traceable, and usable. The experts at Access Sciences stand ready to make it happen.

We provide Engineering Information Management solutions that transform your tangle of unstructured information into one of your most powerful asset. For more than 40 years, information management has been our sole focus. Partner with us, and you can execute any project, from pre-FEED to handover to O&M, with full confidence that the entire team is moving forward safely with the most accurate, current, and pertinent information.

>70%

Over 70% of large EPC capital projects exceed cost or schedule targets, with average overruns around 30%.

Our EIM solutions encompass strategy, implementation, full change-management programs, and continued managed services. That means we can assist you at any stage of your project, or as a comprehensive ongoing partnership.

Your Go-to Source for Information Certainty

With Access Sciences handling your information management, you're able to streamline processes, align project stakeholders, empower your teams to focus on their core roles, and know that you're working with the best, latest, and most complete collection of information.

- When projects finish, project teams disband, and priorities shift, we make sure your information remains organized, accurate, and updated.
- We manage project information so it can be used optimally at every stage, from design and construction, to commissioning and operations.
- We solve today's challenges to provide peace of mind on the integrity of your information throughout the asset's lifecycle.

The Access Sciences team is dependable and reliable. They take pride in their work, and they are problem solvers. We rely on them to keep the work scope moving forward, despite any obstacles or upheaval.

- Sr. Business Analyst at Fortune 500 Oil and Gas Company

What We Do

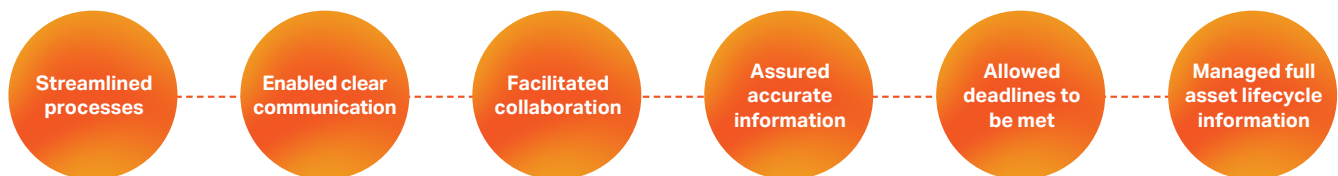

Strategize, Collaborate, Manage, Adapt

When you entrust information management to Access Sciences, you have an expert team handling one of your most critical functions. But more importantly, you have a partner. We take on your challenges as our own, and tailor solutions to solve them. We also remain attentive to your changing needs and readily adapt.

Elements of our EIM Solutions

- Document Management: We work with you to select, implement, and configure document management systems, processes, and procedures.
- Document Control as a Service: We remove this burden from project controls and O&M management and ensure proper document governance.
- Drawing Integration and Management: We create and maintain digital master models to incorporate revisions from AE vendors, confirm compliance to standards, and enable ready access to critical information.
- EIM Remediation: We assess and untangle decades of disjointed and unorganized asset information to make it usable and valuable again.
- Content Migration: We provide precise, traceable migrations that preserve revisions, comments, transmittals, and workflow histories.
- Digital Twin Sustainment: We help you maintain digital twin integrity through updates that reflect modifications from ongoing O&M activities.

A major fuel supplier operating a network of refineries, pipelines, and terminals was faced with building three concurrent megaprojects. This involved aligning project information across a team that included 12+ contractors around the world. Access Sciences got it done with EIM solutions that:

What You Get

Partnership, Clarity, Assurance, Opportunity

Partner with Access Sciences and you get a team of experts bent on building the right solution for you. We know that information management issues are human issues. That's why the foundation of your solution is our relationship. Our people come to you with expert insights and actionable solutions, but also open minds. So together we can gain long-term value from your information and forge the best way forward for your team and your project.

We've worked this way for four decades and helped clients across a multitude of segments safely complete countless projects. We're ready to do the same for you. Team up with Access Sciences for Engineering Information Management, realize the full power of your information assets, and gain the efficiencies that today's projects need to succeed.

From Chaos, Clarity

Access Sciences helps you transform your chaotic unstructured content into a powerful asset that enables your people and drives your objectives. When you organize and use your information to its full potential, you can get clarity, gain control, shed risk, and seize opportunities.

